1 Introduction

IDE Group believes that having an inclusive culture with a talented, diverse and engaged workforce is fundamental to helping us reach our growth ambitions and being able to deliver value to our customers and shareholders. We encourage and value the contribution of all our employees and want to create an environment where everyone can thrive and give their best, regardless of their gender or background.

We support equality through fair pay and are confident that men and women are paid equally for doing equivalent roles within our organisation. However, there are challenges with gender diversity within the IT industry and this means we have a greater proportion of men than women across our organisation, particularly in engineering, technical and more senior roles which creates a gender pay gap. We believe the gender bonus gap findings show that men and women are treated fairly in how we determine bonus and commission payments within our company.

We are trying to address the gender imbalance through an inclusive approach to recruitment, offering high quality training and development opportunities and career development paths, flexible working, and entry level opportunities. Addressing gender disparity in engineering, technical and senior level roles will take time, although we believe in doing so we will close our gender pay gap.

Julian Phipps, CFO

2 Headline gender pay gap figures

The gender pay gap is the difference in pay between the mean or median hourly rate of pay that male and female employees receive. The mean gender pay gap is the difference in the average hourly pay for women compared to men. The median gender pay gap is the difference between the midpoints in the ranges of hourly pay for women and men. It takes all of the hourly rates in the sample, lines them up from lowest to highest, and picks the middle-most hourly rate.

The figures provided in the charts below are based on hourly rates of pay as at 5th April 2017 and bonuses paid in the year to April 2017.

The mean pay for men is 11.2% higher than that of women.

The median pay for men is 10.7% higher than that of women.

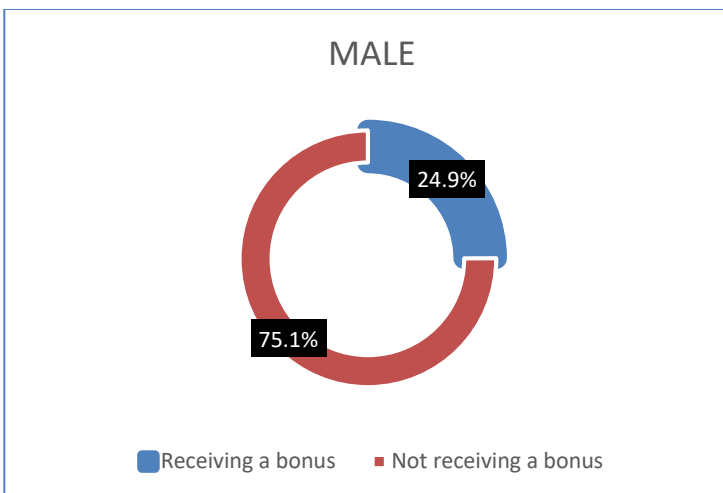

The mean bonus pay for men is 3.8% lower than that of women.

The median bonus pay for men is 18.9% lower than that of women.

3 Proportion of men and women receiving a bonus

The calculations represent the bonus arrangements and sales commission incentives within the company. We also offer recruitment "finder's fee" incentives, which are also included.

4 Population of men and women in each pay quartile

This chart shows the gender split when we order hourly rate of pay from highest to lowest and group into four equal sized quartiles.

5 Our plans

We are committed to creating an inclusive culture where everyone can thrive and give their best, regardless of their gender or background. We are taking steps to support this ambition and to ensure more equal representation across our business.

Examples of initiatives to support this agenda are:

- Launching and embedding a new set of corporate values, CRESTA
 - o Our values promote Collaboration, Respect, Excellence, Speed, Trust and Accountability
 - o The CRESTA values are an essential foundation to creating an inclusive culture
 - o They are reinforced through recruitment and recognition mechanisms, such as “CRESTA champions”
- Developing our resourcing strategy
 - o To better promote roles, career opportunities and our employee offering to both internal and external candidates through our company systems and website
 - o More proactively managing internal moves and progression rather than recruiting externally
 - o Developing career paths to help progression and retention across the organisation
 - o Using different sourcing options to broaden the talent pools we attract candidates from
 - o Offering more entry level opportunities, such as Apprenticeships, to help remove barriers for females who want a career in the IT industry
- Increasing our outreach work with local schools
 - o Female role models promoting IT careers to females
 - o Offering more work experience placements across our business
- Providing comprehensive development options to cater for our diverse workforce
 - o Investment in Learning Cloud technology which gives all employees unlimited access to high quality desktop, business and technical training
